Why we are building Papermark?

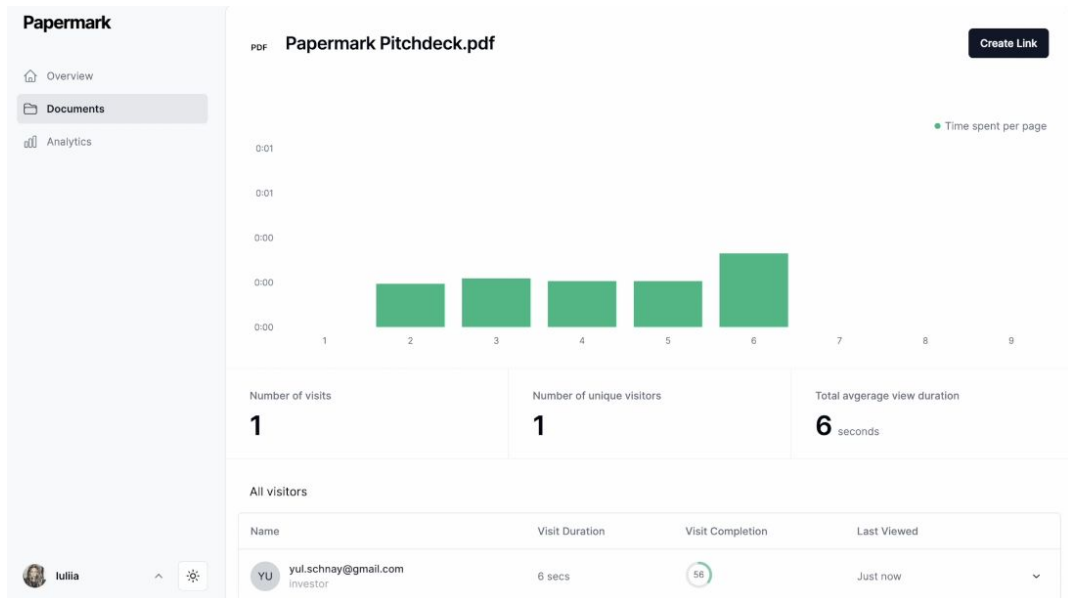

As founders, investors and developers ourselves felt that our needs are not being served.

We struggle to get actionable insights when:

- sending pitch decks to investors
- sales proposals to customers
- or creating secure data room.

That's why we are building Papermark.

An open-source, modern user-friendly document sharing infrastructure with built-in page analytics and 100% customisation.

Why open source?

Security: If you want your documents be hosted on your own servers, that is the most secure way for you and your company

Community of contributors: As an open source project Papermark has 20+ contributors and 1900+ stars on GitHub

Transparency: All code updates you can track on GitHub

Full customization: Ability to custom brand and style your document infrastructure

What our customers say about Papermark??

Ted Spare
@TedSpare

We self-host Papermark at Rubric Labs for doc-sharing. Brilliantly-simple alternative to Docsend. Features are well-executed, so I can't wait to try new stuff!

Jaski
@Jas_Jaski

True builders listen to their users and build what they need. Thanks @papermarkio for solving a big pain point. DocSend monopoly will end soon!

Secure document sharing and Data room creation

With Papermark you can secure share documents for different use cases:

- Startups: share the pitch deck and investor documents
- Investors: creating the data room for their portfolio and LPs
- Companies: sharing sales deck and capturing more emails
- Realtors: sending the brochures and offers
- University: sharing education and password protected documents and many others..
